In 20 years, The Resurrection Project has changed the lives of families within its target communities and across the greater Chicagoland area.

Founded by concerned neighbors, a coalition of churches, and a $30,000 investment of seed capital, The Resurrection Project has become a powerful and effective not-for-profit organization that seamlessly blends community development, community organizing, social services, and advocacy to build vibrant, healthy, and civically engaged communities. Since its inception, TRP has leveraged this initial investment of $30,000 to yield $225 million in community re-investment.

TRP joined with its communities, funders, and partners to celebrate a special 20th anniversary in 2010. We also embarked on a strategic planning process that engaged stakeholders from clients to Board Members to map out the organization’s next five years. Under the guidance of this plan, we will serve more families and continue to build model communities through the concentration and expansion of our projects and programs. We will continue to make a difference in the lives of those we serve. We continue to change the landscape on Chicago’s southwest side and other surrounding Latino communities: increasing assets, building wealth, and creating safe spaces for families to learn, live, and grow.
The Resurrection Project | Historic Timeline

For twenty years, The Resurrection Project has challenged ourselves, our community and our funding partners to invest in success, to empower people, and to transform our neighborhoods into safe, healthy havens. Together we have galvanized financial, human, physical, and spiritual resources to build new homes and build hope. Take a stroll down memory lane and experience how our organization continues to improve our quality of life.

Delapidated buildings, high crime rates & dirty streets were among the challenges faced by the Pilsen community.

The Resurrection Project is founded by concerned & organized residents ready to work on improving the neighborhood.

Dear friends and partners,

On behalf of the staff and Board of Directors at The Resurrection Project, we extend our wholehearted thanks to you for joining in the celebration of our 20th anniversary in 2010! We were honored to commemorate two decades of on-the-ground commitment to Latino families on Chicagoland’s southwest side with those who have provided unwavering partnership to us over these 20 years.

The history of The Resurrection Project’s presence in Chicago, and impact on the neighborhoods we serve, is both deep and wide. There is depth in the quality of our services, and the relationships with our communities and our partners. There is increasing width as we reach more and more families each year through our affordable housing opportunities, financial literacy, civic engagement, and programs for education, safety, and health.

Our hope is to share with you, through this Annual Report, how our work—anchored in the roots we have grown over time—continues to deepen and widen through new relationships and increased presence locally and nationally. Please enjoy this quick look back into our history, as well as a glimpse into a future guided by our latest Strategic Plan, completed at the end of 2010.

As we embark on a new decade, we remain humbled and grateful for those on this journey with us to invest in, empower, and transform the communities we serve. Here’s to another 20 years!

In Gratitude,

Raul I. Raymundo
Chief Executive Officer

Father Charles W. Dahm
TRP Board Chair
“The Resurrection Project’s affordable housing has allowed me to be involved in my community again. Now I am sharing all my talents and skills that I have been waiting to share for years. My interests are being fulfilled, my social life has improved and my overall quality of life is way better now. I am blooming at Casa Maravilla!”

- Harry Irizarry, Casa Maravilla tenant

In 1990, TRP started developing safe and affordable housing in the underserved southwest-side neighborhood of Pilsen and quickly expanded into the surrounding neighborhoods of Little Village and Back of the Yards. Over the past 20 years, TRP has changed the course of those communities by providing safe, affordable housing opportunities. To this day, TRP has developed and manages 274 units of affordable rental apartments, has built over 140 affordable homes, and 2 child care centers.

Looking Back...

In 20 years, our initial investment of $30,000 has yielded over $225 million in community reinvestment. As we roll out our new Strategic Plan, upcoming projects include La Casa, construction of the Instituto Health and Sciences Career Academy, and affordable housing opportunities, through the Neighborhood Stabilization Program in Back of the Yards and Melrose Park. We project the development of an additional $228 million in community assets in the next five years. TRP will also grow its tangible assets by expansion into new emerging suburban Latino communities, facilitating approximately $80 million in community investment for these areas.

Looking forward...

In 2010, TRP’s accomplishments included completing construction and leasing of Casa Maravilla, 73 new affordable apartments for adults 55 and older, as well as facilities for the first Pilsen Senior Satellite Center. They secured $8.9 million from the State of Illinois Department of Commerce & Economic Opportunity for La Casa & initiated demolition of structures at site. They started construction of the Instituto Del Progreso Latino’s Instituto Health & Sciences Career Academy. TRP is the developer for this new school. They acquired 9 homes in Melrose Park & Bellwood to implement the Neighborhood Stabilization Program’s affordable housing opportunities.
In 1992, TRP sold its first new home in response to demands for affordable and safe housing in the Pilsen neighborhood. Quality construction and comprehensive financial services created a high demand for the homes, and in September of 1993 TRP hosted a drawing to select the future homeowners of our next 100 homes. Since then, TRP’s Financial Services Division has continued to provide homeownership counseling as well as financial literacy education, with a goal of promoting the financial success & wealth creation for our clients.

Looking Back...

An initial effort as part of our Strategic Plan is to implement an organization wide Universal Intake Process to better help families and connect them to diverse services depending on their needs assessment. Our aim is to also expand and enhance our curriculum to offer more comprehensive financial wellness opportunities in Pilsen, Little Village, Back of the Yards, and also Melrose Park, as well as provide expanded opportunities for appropriate financial and lending products.

Looking forward...

“TRP taught us how to make good financial decisions that allowed us to become first time homeowners of a safe and affordable comfortable home.”

- Natalia Garcia, TRP Homeowner

2010 Accomplishments

Served 2,589 families, including 429 which attended TRP’s Foreclosure Prevention Workshops, 932 at one-on-one foreclosure counseling, 274 at TRP’s Home Rescue Fair, 120 women enrolled and active in our Mujer Avanzando program and 1,024 served through the Center for Working Families.

TRP & Instituto del Progreso Latino’s Center for Working Families celebrated 6 years of successfully helping families achieve their financial goals. In 2010, 190 CWF clients who were tracked for more than 6 months had their credit score increase, with an average increase of 36 points.

The Mujer Avanzando Program is a three-year partnership between TRP Instituto del Progreso Latino, & Mujeres Latinas En Acción. TRP received the National Council of La Raza’s (NCLR) 2010 Affiliate of the Year Award and the opportunity to share the inspirational story of this program at NCLR’s 2010 conference.

TRP Financial Services Division expanded its reach by opening a new satellite office at Holy Cross/Immaculate Heart of Mary Church & launched an educational campaign for prospective homebuyers in the area.

Financial Services
As we enter our third decade, TRP’s Community Engagement Division will encompass two capacities—community programs and community organizing. The new division will nurture and develop local leaders and facilitate coalitions between organizations and leaders in order to build a lasting and collective power. In essence, TRP’s Community Engagement Division will bring people and organizations together to act on their self interest to secure “a place at the table” to make important decisions for the improvement of our regional quality of life and empowerment of our residents.

TRP’s investment in Community Organizing and leadership training has always been at the heart of our mission. Over the years, thousands of families and individuals have become community leaders, homeowners, volunteers, parishioners and mentors. TRP develops leaders who discuss the issues facing their families and work for social change. For 20 years, we have empowered our communities to understand and influence social issues. We have proven how civic engagement can make a difference in our neighborhoods’ quality of life.

Looking back...

Promoted awareness and prevention of breast and cervical cancer by conducting 40 workshops—educating 810 women and securing 230 referrals for free mammograms and pap smears.

Facilitated leadership formation trainings at TRP member parishes and affordable rental properties attended by 83 community leaders. Participants continually pushed for change at the local, state, and national levels by advocating for initiatives such as the Smart Enforcement Act and the recently enacted Illinois DREAM Act.

2010 Accomplishments

- TRP registered 790 voters in the “Tu Voto, Nuestra Esperanza” campaign held during the 2010 mid-term elections in the Pilsen & Little Village communities.
- TRP held the eleventh successful season of the Resurrection Basketball League. Approximately 100 youth participated in recreational alternatives to violence during the summer months.

“If I can positively impact a struggling woman’s life by sharing my story, I would share my experience with Mujer Avanzando, encourage her to pursue and achieve her goals, just like I did. I overcame, became stronger and now I feel I can accomplish anything.”

- Sandy Guzman, Mujer Avanzando Participant

Looking forward...

As we enter our third decade, TRP’s Community Engagement Division will encompass two capacities—community programs and community organizing. The new division will nurture and develop local leaders and facilitate coalitions between organizations and leaders in order to build a lasting and collective power. In essence, TRP’s Community Engagement Division will bring people and organizations together to act on their self interest to secure “a place at the table” to make important decisions for the improvement of our regional quality of life and empowerment of our residents.
Through the Education Task Force, TRP played a crucial part in launching a 5-year Pilsen Education Plan calling for strong parent involvement, high-quality academic enrichment programs, and opportunities for civic engagement and volunteering within local community-based organizations.

Elev8 became the highest performing pilot program in the nation—serving more than 300 students and 150 parents with extended learning programs. It also provided 700 Pilsen families with healthcare services at a school-based health center operated by our partner, Alivio Medical Center.

TRP convened the Economy Task Force from a group of local business owners. They participated in LISC’s Metro Edge Study—an initiative that explores the creation of a local chamber of commerce & promotes new economic development efforts.

TRP played a key role in the Broadband Technology Opportunities Program, supported the Digital Summer Youth Program, maintained PilsenPortal.org, and extended local computer literacy opportunities.

“...I was scared of getting near a computer, but that is not the case anymore. Now I can go to the library, log into my email, use the computer with my son, and help him with homework. This has been a wonderful experience and thanks to it I am studying English too, and that is improving my life!”

- Jesus Jimenez, Civic 2.0 graduate

TRP responds to needs in our communities by leveraging needed resources and establishing relationships, in order to create the greatest sustainable change leading to the greatest social impact. Since 1998, LISC’s New Communities Initiative has worked with TRP to establish comprehensive community-building. Through this partnership, TRP created a Quality-of-Life plan for Pilsen in 2005 followed by a Pilsen Planning Committee to implement the activities and objectives set forth within that document. The New Communities Program has strengthened local community-based organizations by providing seed capital funds dedicated to run new initiatives and programs.

NCP will continue to enhance coalitions with local leaders, community-based organizations and residents, identifying opportunities for progress and responding to needs critical to our community. Future plans for TRP and its neighborhood partners include establishment of an active, sustainable and independent chamber of commerce for Pilsen, an education plan to extend Elev8 initiatives at Orozco Community Academy, integration of technology and computer education to bridge the area’s digital divide, and the creation of La Casa and its support and mentorship programs for students.
